

FORGE A FOODIE ADVENTURE IN BILLINGS, MONTANA'S TRAILHEAD

Where shadows of the towering Rimrocks meet the mystic waters of the Yellowstone River, Billings serves as Montana's trailhead for whatever awesome adventures visitors seek under big skies. Montana's largest city, Billings seamlessly blends metropolitan amenities like spas and fine dining with rugged outdoor exploration that one expects from the region. Indeed, Billings is a meat-and-potatoes kind of place, but an influx of talented chefs have been catalyzing an evolved culinary scene in Billings. Spend mornings hiking or biking along the more than 47 miles of trails weaving their way through the city and its wild western outskirts, and then sit down to a meal you might find on a menu in Chicago, New York or L.A. (albeit in a more casual environment).

Another local favorite, the Cluck, is a unique take on chicken and waffles, featuring a fried boneless chicken cutlet, a cinnamon pressed shortcake and apple cider gravy, along with the perfect little dusting of powdered sugar.

Stella's Kitchen and Bakery - Wake up and warm up with some fresh baked cinnamon rolls at Stella's Kitchen and Bakery. For more than 40 years, Stella's has been a favorite among locals and visitors alike serving breakfast all day ranging from egg dishes to pancakes. And those cinnamon rolls? Fill up with breakfast staples like eggs, French toast, buttermilk pancakes, and sausage gravy and biscuits before heading out to play.

In addition to dinner and lunch, as well as a full wine and beer menu, the Fieldhouse serves weekend brunch including sweet and savory items like fried chicken benedict, French toast, Carolina pulled pork and all the usual breakfast staples like eggs, bacon, toast and taters. And yes, of course there are mimosas.

DINNER

Walker's Grill - James Beard Nominee, Chef Nick Steen, has crafted a skillful menu full of small plates like spicy cauliflower and pork belly tacos, as well as succulent entrees like coldwater prawns and apple-brined pork shank. Walker's Grill embraces no one style of cuisine. Rather, the frequently changing menu, based on seasonal ingredients, might include anything from andouille sausage Bolognese to Casey's Korean Beef Bowl, a recipe Steen learned growing up in San Francisco. With the keen understanding that not everyone is embracing of bold, worldly flavors, Walker's serves more traditional items like fried chicken, meatloaf and a strip steak to ensure everyone has a seat at the table.

Sample delicious entrees like Cozze E Salsiccia, which is steamed mussels, sausage and peppers in a sauce, along with the classic linguini and meatballs. Ciao Mambo also serves 12 different kinds of pizza including the traditional varieties in addition to some with a unique twist like Pizza Volpetti, which is topped with roasted red potatoes, mozzarella, crispy pancetta and cream sauce.
